FISHING IN THE SHEMANDOAH.

A lively fishing party composed of one gentleman from the banks of the picturesque Hudson, one from the muddy "Jeemes," whose course Gen. Butler labored so hard to divert during the war, one who was supposed to be familiar with the most secluded haunts of the bass, and every nook and creek in the Shenandoah, accompanied by a little boy from Richmond, started out one day last week, intent upon having the largest string of bass ever pulled from the sparkling waters of "Laughing Daughters of the Stars." They were a happy crowd and greatly enjoyed the crisp air and smooth sailing on the Shenandoah. Noislessly and swiftly they glided along, each one thinking himself chuck of happiness, when their boat was suddenly stopped by a wire concealed beneath the water. Before they had time to consider whether they had run on a torpedo or a concealed mine, the boat with unexpected violence whirled over and emptied its load of fishermen into deep water.

There was then seen a struggling mass of humanity. The little boy reached a rock and there noisily enjoyed the scene as he looked upon the struggle of the older members of the party. They all safely reached the shore, but a more disappointed and dilapidated set of fishermen were never seen. As they slowly wended their way home, they concluded that the fellow who defined "fisherman's luck" was no fool.

Laying of Corner-Stone.

The corner-stone of the new Methodist Church in Strasburg was laid last Saturday by District Deputy Grand Master Canby assisted by Spurrmont Lodge, A. F. and A. M. of Strasburg and visiting Masons from Front Royal and Woodstock. The services were greatly assisted by a choir which very sweetly rendered the music usual upon such occasions. After the Masonic ceremonies Rev. Mr. Link of Strasburg delivered an excellent and eloquent address.

There were deposited in the corner-stone the articles taken from the old corner-stone, a list of officers and members of the church, names of building committee, church paper, 2 copies of the local paper, the Strasburg News, and some other articles. Spurrmont Lodge extended open hearted hospitality to all the visiting masons.

The church about to be erected will be a neat brick edifice and will add to the many improvements now being made at Strasburg.

MAD DOG TEARS A CHILD'S FACE.

CARL WIGHTMAN, OF EDINBURG, AT THE PASTEUR INSTITUTE.

Several hundred cases have been treated at the Pasteur department of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Baltimore, but never has Director N. G. Keirle or his assistant, Dr. Gay Morgan, seen a victim so badly torn by a dog as little Carl Wightman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wightman, of Edinburg, Va., who was admitted yesterday. The child is only three years old, and he is also one of the youngest patients to be given the treatment. The dog which bit the little fellow was undoubtedly rabid.

The child's nose was torn nearly off its face and its lower lip was torn nearly off while the entire face is disfigured from the teeth of the animal. After the ugly wounds had been cauterized, which took a great length of time, despite the fact that the painful operation was performed under ether, the physicians found it necessary to sew up the gashes. Two stitches were taken in the nose, one in the upper lip and two in the lower lip. Five times the dog attacked the child with such ferociousness that the little fellow had not the strength to fight it off. Many persons witnessed the horrible spectacle but before they could kill the dog it had inflicted five bites with the savagery of a wild beast. The animal was lying on the steps of the postoffice in Edinburg and some passerby kicked it. The child was playing nearby, and without the slightest warning, the dog swooped down upon the little fellow.

It was on Friday that the incident happened, and the parents immediately prepared to take the child to Baltimore. Bites on the face and neck are always more dangerous than any other part of the anatomy, but Director Keirle stated that he did not believe he would have any trouble with the case, owing to the fact that parents had taken up the treatment from the earliest possible moment.

Three other patients have also been received, and all were bitten by the same dog, though they live about twenty miles apart.

The dog was undoubtedly rabid, for it went on a wild rampage before it was finally killed. Many dogs, cats, cows and horses are thought to have been bitten by the animal, and it is well established fact that the three persons were victims of the same dog.

Mr. Jacob Kibler, a brother of Mr. Jas. Kibler who left his home in this county, about the year 1851, has become an extensive farmer in the state of Washington. He owns several farms, one of which contains over 1000 acres. The product of his one farm, this year was over 18,000 bushels of wheat, and 2,400 of barley. He lives near Walla Walla. He owns his own warehouses and carries on his extensive farming operations without paying for storage. We are always glad to hear of the success of the sons of Shenandoah.

Fred Thompson who had been tried by Justice Dysart for larceny of a gold watch belonging to Sallie Brown and had been committed to jail, in default of payment of the fine of twenty dollars, appealed his case to the circuit court. He was tried last Wednesday and the jury brought in a verdict of guilty and fixed his punishment at 3 months in jail and a fine of twenty dollars.

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE JOHN H. DULIN.

At the opening of the September term of the Shenandoah Circuit Court Monday, Hon. R. J. Walker, of Mt. Jackson paid the following tribute to the late John H. Dulin, which Judge Harrison ordered to be placed on the records of the court:

YOUR HONOR:—

Since the last term of this court, death, that mighty reaper that spares none from his sickle, has entered our ranks and claimed for his victim John H. Dulin, one of the youngest members of this Bar, who fell like some tall cedar of Lebanon lightning-stricken.

Mr. Dulin's illness was of short duration, he left here with his wife and child on the 19th of July to visit his loved ones at the old home near Leesburg, very soon after his arrival there he was stricken down with typhoid fever and continued to grow worse until the end, Saturday evening August 12th, 1905; his body was brought here by rail on the 15th of August, a very large number of people—friends, neighbors and brothers—had gathered at the depot to receive it, and followed the hearse of their loved dead to the beautiful Massanutten Cemetery, and with bowed heads and sad hearts, his body was lowered to its final home in his adopted county to await the call of the angels, no sound broke the stillness save the reading of the scripture, the reciting of the beautiful burial services of the Old Fellows and Knights of Pythias and the melody of music.

John H. Dulin, was a young man of sterling integrity, he was every inch a man, his private character, like Portia, was beyond reproach, the breath of suspicion did not even dim its lustre and brightness. He was a lawyer of considerable ability, he loved his profession and gave to the law his unstinted devotion, knowing that like a jealous mistress, it would endure no rival; in his business life he was upright, industrious and attentive; a true friend, a dutiful son, a devoted and faithful husband, a tender and loving father, his affection for his young wife and only child, a baby daughter, was as sweet and pure as a mother's kiss; he was a good christian, earnest and devoted to the cause and interest of his church and community, so high and pure were the ardor and quality of his character that he was an easy master of every temptation.

That a life so pure, so valuable, so exemplary and to human sight so incomplete should thus be snuffed out, is one of those mysteries that we are unable here to understand—

"Not now, but in the coming years, it may be in the better fate of the world, we'll read the meaning of our tears, and then, sometime, we'll understand."

We'll catch the broken threads again, And find what we here began; Heaven'll melt the mysteries exp. am. And then, at last, we'll understand."

We'll know why clouds instead of sun Were over many a cherished plan; Why song has ceased when voices began; To there, sometime, we'll understand."

Why what we long for most of all; Eludes so oft our eager hand; Why hopes are crushed and castles fall, 'Up there, sometime, we'll understand."

We pause in our tribute to the dead to send a message of sympathy to his honored father, devoted mother, loving brothers and sisters, widowed wife and orphaned child who are sorely stricken by an incurable grief, as in agonizing tears they stand by a fresh made grave containing the remains of what was to them, all that was true, beautiful and good, and may we not, with perfect safety, extend to them the consolation and the hope that the inexorable law of fate that cut assunder the silver chord that held him to their human existence, at the same time, in God's way, placed in his hand the golden key that unlocked the inner chamber of the holy of holies in the palace of eternity.

In behalf of the members of the Bar and officers of this court, I am instructed to present the following resolutions, passed at a meeting held Aug. 15th, 1905, at which W. B. Magruder, Pres. and W. B. Miley Secy. and request your Honor to order the same spread upon the minutes of the court:

WHEREAS, Under the ruling of Wise Providence, death has fallen upon our community by the sad and intelligence of the untimely death of John H. Dulin, a member of our honored profession,

And, whereas, in the person of our brother and friend, we found a worthy and honored member of the Bar, a man of sterling integrity of character, a christian gentleman, and a devoted to his profession and ever watchful of the interest of his clients. Therefore be it

Resolved, 1st. That we deplore the loss of our brother lawyer and the bereavement of his bereaved family.

2. That we extend our warmest sympathy to his bereaved family.

3. That we members of the Woodstock Bar and officers of the court, attend the funeral services in a body.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family and spread on the minutes of the court.

Your Honor, the world is better that John H. Dulin lived, heaven happier that he died. To his memory, honor. To his ashes, peace.
